

My Tattoo, Your New Attire

To me, a tattoo is like a new attire,
Draped upon you in moments of bare desire.
Not merely adornment for skin's muted hue,
But a canvas of thoughts, of dreams breaking through.
It shapes your contours, both real and surreal,
Expressing your essence, your spirit, your zeal.
As the tailor of ink, I must know your core,
To craft a fit garment, a truth to explore.
This "new attire" speaks in whispers and shouts,
A bond shared in silence, where only we doubt.
Yet when the world sees it, in awe they can gaze,
A joy in the sharing, a warmth in the praise.

Your Idea / Our Artwork
You are commissioning a unique piece from Joey Pang; it is designed by her, according to her experience.

Tailored Process
There are many aspects of the design process that are not commonly considered by clients. You must rely on your artist's expertise throughout. This process is between you and Joey only; third-party opinions will not be considered.

The Final Design
Joey will decide on the details of the final composition.

If we accept your commission, there will be a design fee to start the creation process.

No matter how big or small your artwork is, the body remains one unified piece. The final placement and effect are different from one on paper. Joey will review the artwork with you in person and help you picture the artwork on your body.

Your consultant will help you through every stage of the process. We are here to answer any questions you might have as well as arrange all the necessary logistics.

Unique Living Art

2006 by Joey Pang

Art brings the abstract into the light,
While most media are lifeless and still.
Only tattoos, on living flesh,
Present this art with enduring thrill.
Each tattooed soul, a canvas unique,
Willingly bears the pain and the bleed,
For the sake of art, a personal peak,
In the depths of sacrifice, they proceed.
Beneath the surface, art cycles through,
Carried by people in the world they roam,
With this living skin, they express the true,
From state to state, they feel at home.
The dance of ink and body entwined,
Gives this artwork a life of its own,
As it morphs with the owner, aging, resigning,
Through life, death, and burial, it's shown.
Yet some, with intent, seek to preserve,
Intervening to save this living art,
Separating it from the body's curve,
Restoring it to its original part,
A "work of art" to be cherished and sold,
A piece of the soul, with stories untold.

We eagerly anticipate seeing your tattoo concepts come to life!
